Dawn of a Magazine for Sustainable Tourism

Welcome to the inaugural edition of Sri Lanka unfolded tour magazine 'The Lanka TOURGUIDE'. Born from the heart of our island's vibrant landscapes, resilient communities, and untold stories waiting to be shared.

Today's tourism is not just about destinations—it's about transformation. It's about embracing sustainable practices that protect our ecosystems, championing climate-responsive initiatives that future-proof our experiences, and nurturing community-led activities that empower the very people who make our journeys meaningful.

From the misty hills of agri-ecotourism to the rhythmic hands of craft artisans, Sri Lanka offers a tapestry of experiences that are as enriching as they are responsible. But to truly thrive, we must also embrace the digital frontier—leveraging platform marketing and smart technologies to connect, amplify, and innovate.

We urge our readers to keep a learning eye—curious, open, and ready to evolve. Tourism success must be measured not only in financial returns, but in cultural preservation, environmental stewardship, and social inclusion. Most importantly, we believe in the power of women and youth to lead this movement. Their creativity, courage, and entrepreneurial spirit are the heartbeat of rural revitalization. Let us walk beside them, support their ventures, and celebrate their leadership.

Together, let's reimagine tourism—not as an industry, but as a force for good. Let's make Sri Lanka a beacon of sustainable travel for the world to follow.

opportunities to boost tourism from the neighborhood. We have many challenges to attract tourists for Colombo and keeping them for couple of days in the city. Therefore we need such glamorous events to create happenings. Events like this will rewrite the brand image of Sri Lanka and will make a mammoth opportunity for us to send the message across the world that Sri Lanka is on the upswing and these kind of entertainment events are happening in Colombo”.

Speaking at the occasion Buddhika Hewawasam Chairman Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority (SLTDA) and Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau (SLTPB) told the media that “Sri Lanka tourism is aiming to make Colombo an exciting and vibrant city and to be a hub for entertainment and music in Asia. We are doing the groundwork to open it to the world. We initially invite our immediate neighbors like India, to our northwest, and the Maldives, to our southwest”.

He revealed that all the infrastructure has been built. Hotels are ready and the city is in the actual presence to welcome all levels of tourists from the luxury high end to the downwards.

Colombo City has a spirit of music, experience of entertainment. So we need crowds to come to Colombo exactly for the purpose of visiting Colombo. There are exciting sporting events happening in Sri Lanka like T20 and various other events including weddings and MICE events. These are coming-up and Music is a bigger part to align with it”.

He further indicated that Ne-Yo the world class artist, the icon is not only coming to Sri Lanka but he is coming to Asia for the first time and begins his performance tour from Colombo. Hewawasam noted capturing from the same own words of Ne-Yo that “Connecting people from music is one part of the game”. SRI LANKA TO ATTRACT HIGH SPENDING TOURISTS

Sri Lanka's tourism sector is on the brink of significant growth driven by substantial investments and a strategic push to attract high-spending tourists over an effective strategic plan to be launched shortly. The tourism industry is poised for a major boost amid rising demand. Sri Lanka Tourism is actively enhancing its appeal to the high-end tourism market, aiming to attract a greater number of affluent travelers and boost a set revenue target of a record-breaking $5 billion this year (2025).

require a strategic push towards improving overall service standards, travel experience, and an innovative line of product offerings and ensured that tourism's benefits extend beyond urban hubs to rural communities. The government aims to achieve an overall tourist arrivals of 3 million with a strategy promoting the island as a premier destination for discerning travelers highlighting the country's unique attractions and experiences to plea high-spending travelers. The country has a considerable of rooms and value added offerings. Sri Lanka is to solidify its position as a leading travel destination, focusing our unique smile, hospitality and high-quality service. International social media buzz that high-end tourism in Sri Lanka is growing, with influencers and media personnel showcasing luxury experiences and destinations, contributing to a positive image and increased international interest in the island nation.

This digital marketing strategy has helped Sri Lanka to attract high-spending tourists and promote Sri Lanka as a top-tier destination. Certain attempts are being made by local social media platforms to sabotage the government through fake gossip, targeting to insult about tourism arrivals. In response to this; Deputy Tourism Minister Prof. Ruwan Ranasinghe told Daily News that "Sri Lanka should pursue a balanced tourism approach by attracting a mix of high-end, mid-range, and budget travelers, ensuring all segments in the country have opportunities to benefit from tourism revenue. This strategy involves diversifying tourism offerings and promoting sustainable practices to social benefits for all people in the country.

Prof. Ranasinghe is a proficient, having PhD in Tourism Management, BSc in Tourism and Hospitality Management and as a Senior Lecturer at Uva Wellassa University, opined with his academic proficiency that High-end Tourism is not only focused on luxury accommodations, but it has to couple with delighting experiences. Mid-range tourists should be offered a mix of comfortable accommodations with Bed & Breakfast (B&B) options, engagement in activities, also with some luxurious experiences and access to diverse attractions like wildlife parks, cultural sites, and

Tourism Minister Vijitha Herath

Tourism Minister Vijitha Herath stressed the need for a balanced approach that prioritizes both quality and quantity of tourist arrivals. He said Sri Lanka is focusing on enhancing the quality of its tourism offerings in order to strive for high-end travellers and number of rooms suitable for high-end tourists while developing new accommodations. The hotels in operation at present are experiencing increased occupancy, indicating a demand. Further emphasis is also being placed on enhancing the quality historic locations. They seriously consider 'value for money' and may largely depend on online tourism reviews. "We have to cater to Budget Tourists such as backpackers or low-cost travelers for friendly Home Stay Accommodations (HAS), affordable transportation options, and budget-

The Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority (SLTDA) is releasing approximately 3,000 acres of government land for tourism investments with immediate effect. This initiative aims to attract both domestic and international investors and boost the tourism sector with an estimated $50-60 million in investments. The SLTDA has launched a digital platform, the "Land Bank Management Information System (LBMIS)," to facilitate the process. Lands will be offered on a 33-year lease. These lands are located in strategic areas, including Bentota, Kalpitiya, Pasikudah, Trincomalee and few other areas including north. SLTDA is actively promoting investment opportunities and is committed to a transparent process for allocating land to investors, according to Buddhika Hewawasam Chairman SLTDA/SLTPB (Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau).

SLTDA former Chairman Priantha Fernando said in August last year that SLTDA received 39 project proposals for hotels worth $ 55 million investment, with 16 approved worth $ 26 million. He said lands were identified in Kalpitiya, Kuchchaveli, Bentota, Delft Islands, and Mannar for private sector development.

"Sri Lanka has the assets to be one of the most desired destinations in the world. What we need now is scale, innovation, and consistency. Cinnamon Hotels & Resorts is at the forefront of showcasing this potential, offering luxury, lifestyle, and authentic experiences that appeal to travellers globally. We harness technology and innovation to deliver seamless, personalized guest experiences, while ensuring sustainability and inclusivity remain at the heart of our growth," said Hishan Singhawansa, CEO of Cinnamon Hotels & Resorts. He said "Recently launched Cinnamon Life is a landmark of US$1.2 billion integrated resort in Colombo, and the largest development of its kind in South Asia, with 687 rooms, over 160,000 sq. ft. of MICE facilities for up to 5,000 guests, and a mix of dining, and entertainment, residences, retail etc. Kamal Munasinghe Chief Operating Officer, Cinnamon Hotels & Resorts said that "Cinnamon Grand, Cinnamon Lakeside and Cinnamon Red have increased occupancy rate to a considerably satisfied level. Sri Lanka was at ground zero level during the economic crisis, but is now gradually building up to attract upmarket tourists. The tourism sector is now playing a pivotal role in revitalizing the Sri Lankan economy, and the private sector is seriously contributing an extra effort to boost the tourism industry. Cinnamon Hotels are targeting high-end travelers through global sales offices in India, Japan, UK, China, and few other countries through their website brand.com and ongoing promotional events. Wide scale ground work has already begun through Cinnamon worldwide marketing offices and through global marketing network avowed attracting upmarket and business tourists.

Munasinghe said "Colombo will soon be developed to a popular tourist destination specially focused at high-end tourists with our impressive city attractions and the presence of deluxe upscale hotels located in the city" "Cinnamon hotels can cater to nearly 900 rooms in Colombo with different guest choices such as elegant, grand style, village atmosphere and homey private stays with sense of superior quality, lavishness, and exceptional offering hope for the future of tourism ensuring guests have a unique experience of the country" said Munasinghe.

He proposed that a joint efforts should be taken with the government to improve MICE (Meetings, Incentives, Conferences, and Exhibitions) business, foreign weddings sports tourism and focused on individual luxury travelers.

He also noted the industry faces challenges to reach 3 million arrivals due to limited airport capacity and air connectivity. Immediate actions should be taken to rectify such issues. He appreciated that some efforts have already been commenced by the government and requested the state tourism to engage aggressively in approaching high-end travelers linked with globally based diplomatic missions of Sri Lanka.

Hiran Cooray, Chairman Jetwing Hotels told that "Low-end tourist arrivals in Sri Lanka can negatively impact the country by potentially straining infrastructure, contributing to environmental damage, and fostering cultural commodification, while high-end tourists tend to spend more and are more likely to engage with local businesses and culture in a sustainable way. High-end tourists tend to spend more on accommodation, activities, dining, and shopping, leading to greater revenue for the local economy. They are more likely to engage with local businesses, including high-end hotels, restaurants, and tour operators, creating more opportunities for local employment and economic growth. He said low-end tourism has a tendency for increased waste, litter, and possibility for pollution from budget accommodations such as home stay and certain activities that can negatively impact the environment. Cooray also noted about the Cultural Commodification and pointed out that low-end tourists can lead to the commercialization and simplification of local culture, potentially eroding its authenticity while their lower spending can lead to a smaller overall economic contribution compared to high-end tourists who spend more per day. He also noted that some low-end tourists can associate with illegal activities like drug use, prostitution, or exploitation of local resources. A pressing concern raised by Chandra Wickramasinghe, Chairman / Managing Director of Connaissance De Ceylan revealed there's a potential shortfall in accommodation for high-spending tourists due to the growing demand. The country has over 10,000 rooms suitable for high-end tourists. He cautioned that, without addressing the possible shortfall in accommodation for high-spending tourists, Sri Lanka may struggle to meet the demand from affluent travellers. Continued focus and strategic planning, Sri Lanka can harness its full potential as a premier destination for high-spending tourists, driving economic growth and enhancing its global tourism profile, Wickramasinghe opined.

"Tour operators play a crucial role in ensuring traveler safety and security, especially in destinations with safety concerns. They may also play a role in advocating for infrastructure improvements to support high-end tourism. While online travel agencies offer convenience, tour operators differentiate themselves by providing personalized service and expertise, which is particularly important for high-end travelers. By focusing on these key areas, tour operators can effectively attract high-end tourism, contributing to the growth and sustainability of the tourism sector in a destination" stated Nalin Malwenna Managing Director, House of Travels & Tourism a tour operator engaged in high end travels particularly to the European market as local agent for PATA Germany.

This pioneering initiative is built on a strong Public-Private Partnership (PPP) model, bringing together the expertise of government institutions, private training providers, and industry stakeholders. The program is specially designed to develop the essential skills of the younger generation, preparing them as multi-skilled professionals to serve the fast-growing SME establishments in Sri Lanka’s tourism and hospitality sector. Currently, 35 franchise institutes covering all districts have joined hands with SLITHM under this program, ensuring wide access to training opportunities for youth across the country. The national initiative, ceremoniously inaugurated at the Sri Lanka Institute of Tourism and Hotel Management (SLITHM) auditorium in Colombo. Ranaraja emphasised that the financial backing from the Samurdhi Department is pivotal to the programme’s mission of empowering the unemployed youth.

“The programme is a keystone of Sri Lanka’s strategy to expand its tourism workforce to 800,000 by 2030, a necessary step to support the national target of attracting five million tourists and generating US $ 10 billion in annual revenue by the same year” said Dheera Hettiararchchi Chairman SLITHM. He said the programme aims to train and certify 20,000 young individuals per annum, bridging a critical skill gap to meet the nation’s ambitious tourism goals. He also noted that the industry currently employs approximately 421,000 directly and indirectly. “This PPP model, a first of its kind for a nationally recognised NVQ Level 3 course, allows us to leverage the island wide network of 35 partner institutions to scale up training and ensure the quality standards are met.” Hettiararchchi said Through this initiative, SLITHM and the Department of Samudri Development reaffirm their commitment to advancing Sri Lanka’s tourism industry, while also creating sustainable employment opportunities and empowering the nation’s youth.

Key Highlights of the Program were;

- Public-Private Partnership model – combining government support with private sector innovation to maximize reach and quality.
- NVQ Level 3 Certification – nationally recognized qualification upon successful completion. On-the-job training opportunities. direct exposure to industry practices.

- Nationwide promotion campaign – to encourage youth participation and awareness.
- Official Launching Ceremony The Hotel Operations Multitasker programme is designed to equip youth with a versatile skill set covering front office operations, housekeeping and food and beverage services, culminating in a nationally and internationally recognised NVQ Level 3 certification. The programme structure integrates theoretical knowledge with crucial on-the-job training, ensuring the graduates are work-ready and can seamlessly integrate into the fast-growing small and medium-sized enterprise segment of the hospitality industry. The SLITHM will act as the chief franchisor, providing a training of trainers programme to its partners, to maintain a uniform, high-quality curriculum nationwide.

Sri Lanka's tourism target for 2030 is to attract 5 million visitors and generate $8.5 to $10 billion in revenue, tourism workforce to 800,000 focusing on enhancing the quality of the tourism experience and long-term sustainability, rather than solely on increasing arrival numbers. This new vision emphasizes developing MICE Tourism and leisure travel, increasing the average daily spend per tourist, and fostering a more inclusive and globally competitive tourism sector.

Sri Lanka's Youth at the Forefront for Sustainable Tourism Transformation Sep 27 – Oct 1

Sri Lanka will commemorate UN World Tourism Day 2025 with the launch of a landmark nationwide hospitality skills development programme designed for secondary school students.

Spearheaded by the Alumni Association of Tourism Economics and Hospitality Management (AATEHM) of the University of Colombo and the Sri Lanka Institute of Tourism and Hotel Management (SLITHM), the initiative is endorsed by the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Tourism. Introduced under the national theme "Tourism and Sustainable Transformation", the programme aims to create vocational awareness, instill sustainable practices, and expose students to professional hospitality standards. Open to students from Grade 9 upwards, it represents a bold step in preparing youth with the skills, values, and mindsets required to play an active role in shaping Sri Lanka's tourism economy. The initiative unfolds in two stages. In September, provincial competitions will take place across all nine provinces at SLITHM regional centers and partner hotels. Winners from these rounds will advance to a series of national-level events in Colombo that spotlight the country's commitment to youth empowerment and sustainable tourism.

The celebrations begin on 27 September with the Colombo Travel Mart 2025 at One Galle Face, where 75 stalls will bring together tour operators, travel agents, hoteliers, and international buyers. On 28 September, the focus will shift to the Sri Lanka Tourism Job Fair & Career Expo, organised by AATEHM and the Sustainable Tourism Unit with the support of SLTDA, SLAITO, SLITHM, and the University of Colombo. This will connect students, job seekers, and professionals with employers and training institutions, providing career pathways in tourism and hospitality.

On 30 September, the spotlight turns to the nation's youth with the Final School Tourism Club Competition, showcasing the talents and knowledge of students who have emerged from provincial rounds.

The programme will culminate on 1 October at BMICH, where multiple headline events will take place: the 10th International Tourism Research Conference, the 10th International Tourism Leaders' Summit, the launch of the Ruhunu Ring, the Vision-2-Voice Edition, and the grand award ceremony. This finale will bring together global and local leaders, scholars, and innovators to share insights on policy, sustainability, and future-focused transformation.

Beyond these milestones, the initiative builds more than technical hospitality training. It emphasizes essential soft skills such as communication, teamwork, adaptability, and problem-solving. By embedding sustainability into the competition framework, it encourages participants to consider the environmental, social, and cultural dimensions of tourism while gaining real-world experience. Together, these efforts ensure that Sri Lanka's next generation emerges not only with practical expertise but also with the responsibility and vision needed to lead the tourism industry into the future.

Lanka Alliance of Tourism Journalists

Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau intends to establish an Alliance for Tourism / Travel Journalists in Sri Lanka.

Mr. Sampath Nissanka, Managing Director of SLTPB will take the lead role in the forefront of the Alliance, while Ms. Sureshini Ellepola will coordinate all functions on behalf of SLTPB as her official role as Asst. Director (Local Media). Ms. Madubhani Perera, Director Media will also assist the endeavor. Claude Gunasekera, senior journalist, Chief Editor Lankapuvath / Newslanka and TOURGUIDE magazine has been assigned to organise the external part of the effort.

MD/SLTPB said "Travel writers have a dual impact: they positively promote destinations, boost economies, and foster cultural understanding, while also negatively contributing to mass tourism, potentially ignoring social issues, perpetuating stereotypes, and creating idealized, sometimes inaccurate, views of places. The way travel information is reported influences public perception, shapes visitor expectations, and affects tourism-dependent economies and local communities". He said travel writing attracts visitors, which can stimulate local economies, create jobs, and support infrastructure development and by sharing proactive experiences, writers can bridge cultural divides, promote understanding, and encourage a deeper appreciation of different ways of life.

Nissanka also noted that travel writers provide valuable information, allowing potential tourists to make informed decisions about destinations, activities, and potential risks. Highlighting about sustainable tourism practices, he said well-written travel stories can promote responsible tourism, highlighting efforts for sustainability and encouraging positive social and environmental change and adds Value to the Tourism Industry. Positive travel stories will help build destination brands and create imagination around places, influencing visitors' expectations and future travel decisions.

He also commented about the negative impacts contributing to Mass Tourism:

"An overemphasis on exotic or popular destinations can contribute to unsustainable mass tourism, putting pressure on local resources and the environment.

Exclusive Alliance for Travel Journalists

Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau actively works with travel industry professionals, including journalists, to promote sustainable tourism. SLTPB recently partnered with the British Guild of Travel Writers (BGTW) for a media convention in May 2025, aiming to boost the UK travel market for Sri Lanka. SLTPB also focuses on a broad range of tourism stakeholders, the relationship with travel writers is a strategic collaboration to share the nation's story and attract visitors, Writers can amplify existing societal stereotypes or create new ones about destinations and their people, leading to misrepresentation. Travel writers have been criticized for focusing only on the positive or escapist aspects of a destination, failing to address or report on its social, economic, or political problems. Travel journalism often presents a positive and idealized view of destinations, which can set up travelers for disappointment when their reality doesn't match the narrative. A focus on certain destinations can lead to an uneven distribution of tourism benefits, potentially overwhelming local communities and infrastructure".

In conclusion of emphasizing these factors Sampath Nissanka said "Positive support from media persons is crucial for Sri Lanka's rapidly growing tourism sector because they can authentically showcase the island's diverse attractions, inspire global audiences, and counter negative perceptions, ultimately driving more tourist arrivals and contributing to economic growth. Through collaborations with Sri Lanka Tourism, media and influencers act as ambassadors, promoting authentic experiences and fostering a global understanding of the country's unique qualities and resilience.

Media professionals and travel bloggers can share authentic stories and experiences of Sri Lanka, creating a compelling narrative for potential tourists. He also noted that by partnering with Sri Lanka Tourism, media outlets and influencers reach large global audiences, amplifying the country's destination presence and promoting its cultural heritage and diverse landscapes. Media plays a role in promoting the brand "Sri Lanka," embodying the country's vibrant qualities and inspiring pride and a continuous effort for improvement among locals and visitors alike. Sri Lanka Tourism leverages digital marketing and influencer initiatives to connect with modern travelers, especially younger demographics seeking authentic, sustainable, and diverse travel experiences. In the wake of challenges, positive media coverage helps to build confidence in the country's recovery, reinforcing its status as a safe and attractive destination.

Sri Lanka Tourism hosts media and bloggers on familiarization tours to experience and cover various attractions and cultural events, generating positive and informative content.

The Tourism Promotion Bureau focuses on content-driven digital marketing, using social media and other platforms to share immersive content and engage with travelers. The selection of social media influencers who align with the destination's themes helps to truly showcase Sri Lanka's unique offerings to the global audience.

Nissanka finally pointed out "Therefore it is part of our duty to collaborate with the media professionals both local and overseas as Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau (SLTPB) is responsible for marketing and promoting Sri Lanka as an attractive destination, highlighting the nation's natural beauty, cultural heritage, and adventure experiences. The SLTPB conducts promotional campaigns in key international markets, provides information to tourists through its information centers, and works to develop a sustainable tourism product.

Australian Influencers to Showcase Sri Lanka's Wonders to Millions Worldwide

As part of a renewed effort to position Sri Lanka as a top long-haul destination for Australian travelers, the Sri Lanka Tourism Promotion Bureau (SLTPB) organised a special influencer familiarization tour featuring four prominent Australian social media personalities. The group arrived and explore the island end August. This promotional initiative formed part of SLTPB's ongoing global digital outreach strategy aimed at attracting high-yield tourists through content-driven marketing. During their nearly two-week visit, the influencers experienced a carefully curated selection of attractions, from cultural landmarks such as Sigiriya, the Dambulla Cave Temple, and the Temple of the Tooth Relic, to natural and wildlife highlights including the Ella train ride, Yala National Park, coastal gems like Pasikuda Beach and Galle Fort, and modern developments such as Port City Colombo and the Lotus Tower. The itinerary blends heritage, wildlife, beach, and urban experiences, ensuring each facet of Sri Lanka's tourism appeal is authentically showcased.

The visiting influencer group includes Sheridyn Fisher, a lifestyle and wellness creator with 491,000 followers on Instagram and 3.4 million followers on Facebook, known for promoting mindful living and elegant travel storytelling. Ashley Parker, a highly followed TikTok personality with 2.5 million followers and 138,000 on Instagram, brings a high-energy, adventure-driven narrative to her global audience. Cerys Lily, who transitioned from a nursing career to travel content creation, boasts over 215,000 followers on TikTok and 38,500 on Instagram and is admired for her honest and relatable travel experiences. Ella DelNore, a rising figure among digital nomads, has nearly 200,000 TikTok followers and 25,300 Instagram followers, offering a unique lens focused on remote work, wellness, and eco-tourism. The campaign is expected to generate wide-scale visibility for Sri Lanka through real-time video content, cinematic reels, personal reflections, and curated photo stories shared across Instagram, TikTok, Facebook, and YouTube. These digital activations are projected to reach a global audience of over 200 million through combined impressions, significantly enhancing Sri Lanka's destination presence in the Australian market. Officials from Sri Lanka Tourism emphasized that the influencer initiative is a targeted marketing effort to reach younger, experience-driven travelers who seek authenticity, diversity, and sustainability in their travel choices. The influencers, selected for their audience engagement and thematic alignment will serve as digital ambassadors who can authentically showcase the unique experiences Sri Lanka has to offer. With Australia recognized as a growing and valuable tourism source market for Sri Lanka, this campaign is poised to play a vital role in increasing inbound arrivals, particularly during the upcoming southern summer season. It also reinforces SLTPB's strategic pivot toward content-driven digital marketing, supporting the island's tourism recovery and growth on the global stage. This initiative builds on SLTPB's past influencer engagements and reflects a dynamic shift in how the Tourism Promotion Bureau connects with modern travelers through authentic storytelling, community engagement, and immersive digital content that inspires exploration.

Actively participate in Reshaping Tourism

for the better.

Based on the World Tourism Day theme for 2025 "Tourism and Sustainable Transformation" involves rethinking how tourism is developed and experienced to benefit communities and the environment for future generations. This means focusing on long-term goals, strategic planning, and inclusive decision-making that prioritizes sustainability, resilience, and social equity to transform the tourism sector into a force for positive change.

Go beyond simple growth and integrate long-term sustainability goals into every aspect of tourism planning and development. Prioritize Community Engagement, ensuring that tourism development benefits local communities by supporting local businesses, artisans, and providing equitable economic opportunities.

Protect Natural Ecosystems by focusing on conserving natural resources and regenerating marine ecosystems to ensure that future generations can also enjoy them.

Implement deliberate and inclusive governance frameworks that place social equity and resilience at the core of tourism decision-making.

Engage youth in the sustainable tourism movement through education and hands-on experiences to build a more sustainable future for the sector, as seen in initiatives like scheduled 2025 World Tourism Day Programme from September 27 – October 1 in Colombo.

Encourage travelers to engage with local communities responsibly and support efforts to protect the environment. "Tourism and Sustainable Transformation" calls us to action:

It's an invitation to Government, Tourism Businesses, and especially Travelers to actively participate in reshaping tourism for the better.

Tourism can be a powerful tool for social progress, delivering education, employment, and new opportunities when managed sustainably. It emphasizes meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.
